Property Overview

This property is offered as 16.7 acres of raw land with supporting due-diligence materials in hand, or as a partially-entitled package including a completed ALTA survey, geotechnical study, multiple conceptual site plans, and more. Concepts include industrial park with multiple buildings.

Location Overview

This site sits near the intersection of two key corridors. It is directly across from newly completed major retail anchors, including Home Depot and Smith's Food and Drug Shopping Center, and adjacent to the railhead-connected industrial hub. Tooele is currently the fastest growing county in Utah with this area projected to continue a steady 1.5% growth over the next 40 years. The land is zoned Research and Development (RD) I and allows for a large variety of uses and is most ideal for light industrial uses.

DISCLAIMER: Prices, lot sizes and other information provided within this offering memorandum are subject to change. Information herein are concept based only and not deemed approved by any city or county. Some information was compiled using Claude AI (Anthropic) and should be verified by buyer for accuracy.

Multiple Development Opportunities

The 2400 N / 600 E corridor is an active Research and Development (RD) zone. This property's conceptual site plans have included flex and larger warehouse/industrial use developments. Other options have been subdividing into individual one acre lots as shown below.

Infrastructure moves towards the parcels as growth in the area continues to boom. Utilities are nearby in 2400 N. Surveys and studies including geotechnical and ALTA have already been completed.

See Chapter 7 in the City Code below for more information on development.
